INTRODUCING

MARKET TRAYS

Market Trays

Looking for a modern, functional, eco-friendly, fresh food packaging solution, that won't cost the earth?

With Detpak's Market Trays you can have it all, with stylish board-based trays that look great, are fully recyclable, and function even better than pulp alternatives.

Forget plastic, polystyrene, and the expense of sugarcane compostables and get to market with Detpak's Market Trays!

STYLE

Back to the future

The Market Trays' board-based material provides the eco-aesthetic of old-fashioned paper bags and cardboard boxes, with the convenience and functionality of plastic.

Show off your produce

All shallow Market Trays have a crisp white interior which allows the vibrant colours of your produce to stand out on the shelf.

Your brand goes here

Custom print any of the Market Trays range from just 30,000 units, so you can ensure your brand stands out on shelf.

SUSTAINABILITY

Say NO to plastic

A switch to Market Trays significantly reduces the reliance on single use plastics, and will ensure your product stands out with modern customers.

Recyclable & compostable

Made from unlined board our Market Trays are endorsed by the ARL, and can be recycled through kerbside or commercially composted.

Reach your eco-target

As Market Trays contain recycled board, they will help you get closer to your Australian Packaging Covenant Organization (APCO) target, which requires 50% average recycled content in all packaging by 2025.

SUBSTANCE

Cool when chilled

Quality materials means our trays can handle moisture and condensation from fresh foods and cold zones, and won't degrade or soften when chilled.

Food Safety First

Detpak's manufacturing facilities are controlled to stringent food packaging standards through ISO, BRC and AIB accreditation, so you can be sure your Market Trays are safe to use.

That's a wrap

The uniquely engineered design and construction of Market Trays means they can handle automated wrappers with ease, ensuring high-performance on either hand or automated wrapping lines.

90% of Australian consumers want sustainable products.

 A switch from plastic or foam produce trays to Detpak Market Trays can remove at least 90% of the plastic in your produce trays, based on using cling wrap on the Detpak Market Tray

"We are a small family owned organic packer, selling to the major supermarkets. We've made the move to Detpak Market Trays, from our previous degradable pulp trays – Detpak's trays are recyclable and commercially compostable, and performed really well in our testing – they held their shape through the auto - wrapper and didn't go soft in the cool room. We are excited to be changing to a more sustainable option from Detpak."

DANIEL QUATTROCCHI
MONIKA'S ORGANICS

"Eco Farms is a large Certified Organic fruit and vegetable packer. The decision to switch to Detpak Market Trays was easy - the trays perform well in our shelf life trials with improved produce shelf life and the tray integrity was maintained despite moisture exposure. Detpak, as a member of APCO, is also aligned with our company's future sustainability goals. We are excited to receive our first shipment and start packing produce to meet customer requirements and consumer demands."

RACHEL DAVIS
ECO FARMS

"We are a large strawberry farm producing around 3,000 tonnes of strawberries per year. We supply 12 million 250g punnets predominately to major supermarkets annually. We have started using Detpak Market Trays for our speciality market this year after switching over from foam trays. The Detpak Market Trays are much more robust and environmentally friendly. They hold the strawberries well and absorb the moisture from the strawberries when in the cold room."
