CLEAR RECYCLABLE CUPS

WHY RECYCLE?

More than ever before we need to recycle to sustain our environment.

Polyethylene terephthalate (PET) is a fully recyclable plastic which can be placed directly into existing recycling bins. The PET is then melted down and made into items, like furniture, fleece jumpers, blankets and carpets. Some materials such as PLA bioplastics cannot be recycled and are often placed into waste bins. From there they go straight landfill, where they won't break down.

This simple chart explains the difference between recyclable and compostable 'bio' PLA items.
